If your answer is YES, that means the team formation of your project will be evaluated with a high score, because the ideas, comments and evaluations of the end users in the application area can be fed back immediately and precisely to the application system's development. For example, if you are developing an application system for agriculture, end users, such as farmers or agricultural specialists, need to be members of your project.
8. The answer should be YES. ASEAN IVO is encouraging R&D activities receiving different funds, like matching funds from your institution or government, to support ASEAN IVO project R&D activities. If your answer is YES, that means your proposal has high potential and will be evaluated with a high score.

10. The answer should be YES. Since NICT's Fiscal Year is from April to March and provides annual budget to the projects, so the budget plan should be an annual plan.
